Family farming in the Alps

From: Domodossola
To: Innsbruck

The "We are Alps" tour is an initiative of the Permanent Secretariat of the Alpine Convention to promote specific alpine topic while using sustainable means of transport. The 2014 edition of the tour will focus on Family Farming, in order to mark the United Nations Year of Family Farming and to raise awareness of one of the oldest economical activities in the Alps with important social, cultural and environmental dimension.

Family farms play a significant role in maintaining the Alps as we know them, though the type of farming may differ – not just in the products but also in the style of farming and its role for the families. The "We are Alps" tour aims to present as many different activities as possible to bring the Alps and their people to a wider public attention.

Alpine Agricultural goes global

The autonomous Province of South Tyrol is a good example where farming is vibrant economic sector. Apple production from this part of the Alps covers a large percentage of the entire EU production. Ways of how to be competitive, efficient and produce high quality will be presented at the cooperative GEOS in Silandro/Schlanders, member of the VI.P Cooperative. Additional information on agriculture, research activities and related projects in South Tyrol will be given by the University of Bolzano/Bozen with participation of the European Academy of Bolzano/Bozen (EURAC) and the Agricultural Chamber of South Tyrol. The day will be concluded with a presentation of Bolzano/Bozen as Alpine Town of the Year 2009.

Bolzano/Bozen > Padaun

Local supply
a new paradigm for Agriculture

From intensive agricultural production we will shift to farming in areas with natural constraints. Maintaining this type of small family farms requires innovative approaches in marketing and the value-chain. The project "Eggen-taler Kistl" supports farmers in establishing common marketing approaches by connecting farmers with local retailers and customers. Moving to Austria, good examples of linking farming and tourism will be shown in Padaun, where we will visit a local family farm and have a presentation of the "Bergseigerdörfer" initiative.

07.30	Breakfast
08.35	Bus to Nova Ponente/Deutschnofen
09.30	Welcome reception at the town hall by the mayor
10.00	Visit of a small Eggen-taler-Kistl-product store
10.30	Walk to the farmer dairy (about 25 min)
11.00	Visit of the dairy farmer Hofkäserei Learner
13.17-14.25	Bus to Bolzano/Bozen
14.34-16.00	Train Bolzano/Bozen - Brenner/Brennero
16.00-19.00	Walk to Padaun. On the way visit of Mountain farm Bacher Hof.
20.00	Presentation of "Bergseigerdörfer" initiative

Padaun > Innsbruck

Family farming in the future

We will say farewell to the Alps and its agriculture by visiting our last way point, "Helgas Alm", situated in a Natura 2000 area in Valsertal. On the Alm the "Sennerin" breeds the race of "Tauernschecke" goats, produces goat cheese and brings the alpine culture closer to the visitors. In Innsbruck the final expert discussion will give the possibility to reflect on the Impressions collected during the journey and discuss with experts from the University of Innsbruck, the Tyrolean chamber of Agriculture and the future chair of Mountain Agriculture Platform of the Alpine Convention, the prospects for the mountain agriculture in the future.

07.30	Breakfast
08.30-10.00	Walk to a goat farm
10.00	Visit to Helga's goat farm and presentation of the Natura 2000 site
12.18-13.08	Bus and train Vals Touristenrast - Innsbruck
14.00-16.00	Expert discussion: Future of family farms in the Alps and farewell
